Burned on Cumber-
land Mountain.

Mother McKinley Is Slowly Sinking—Conflicting Reports From Cuba—Other Late Telegraphic News.

Pineville, Ky., Dec. 4.—Willis and Tom Barkhart, two farmers living on the Cumberland Mountain, are reported to have been burned to death by the destruction of their home last night. Two children were also fatally burned at the same time.

SLOWLY SINKING.
The President's Mother Nearing
the End.

Canton, O., Dec. 4.—The President's mother is slowly sinking, and there is no hope for her. The President is still here, but will leave for Washington late this afternoon.

and will probably select Louisville as the place for the meeting of the next convention, with a trip to the Northwestern lakes after the business meeting.

TWO STORIES
About the State of Affairs in Cuba.

Havana, Dec. 4.—Gen. Blanco says that the Cubans are nearly conquered and that the end of the rebellion is a matter of but a few months.
Meanwhile reports of Cuban victories come almost daily. The insurgents are fighting with terrible bravery. It seems that the Spaniards cannot tell the truth about the situation.

LOTS OF MONEY

NEW TRIAL REFUSED.

John Dugan Will Spend His Days in the Penitentiary.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 4.—The court of appeals has refused a new trial to John Dugan, the murderer of the brother of Congressman Colson, and he will now enter upon his life sentence.

THEIR "SCOOP."

The Register Has a Peculiar Advice of What One Is.

Maxwell Lang and the others who took the oath of office today before yesterday, were sworn in about dark in the afternoon.

The Register's boast that it was a "scoop" is unfounded, as the administration of the oath had not been made at the time the afternoon papers were issued. The Register is no "scoop," it is stupid.

THE COURTS.

What is On the Lockets Next Week.

The criminal term of circuit court opens Monday with 102 cases on the docket. The grand jury will be empanelled Monday morning.

The police court will convene at 2 o'clock Monday morning in place of 8:30, as heretofore.

Life of Mr. David McKee.
Mr. David McKee who died in this city on the 20th of Nov., was born in Springfield, O., Feb. 8th, 1855.

In early life he moved to New Orleans where he lived until 1885, since which time he has claimed Paducah as his home. In 1891 he was married to Miss Annie Kilcoyne, eldest daughter of Mr. Michael Kilcoyne who survives him. Mr. McKee was a brother of the celebrated lawyer Frank McKee, of Springfield, O.
He was a genial, social friend and a kind and loving husband. Charitable to a fault, he will be greatly missented by the poor as well as by his friends and relatives. His funeral was under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias of which order he was a devoted member.

Prominent Commander Here.
Grand Commander D. A. Broome,

FAST FLYER.

The Illinois Central Reduces Its
Time Tomorrow.

Trains Delayed This Morning—
Dull in Railroad Cycles.

The new Illinois Central time cards arrived this morning, and show but one change. This is in train No. 203, the "cannon ball," which has heretofore been reaching here at 2:15 o'clock, leaving Louisville at 7:30 o'clock. The train under the new schedule will leave Louisville at 8:10, an hour and five minutes later than heretofore, and reach Paducah at 2:35, making up about forty-five minutes.

Claim Agent John Miller, of the Illinois Central, left last night for Dubuque, Ia., on business.

No 204, the Memphis cannon ball, did not arrive until 7:15 this morning, on account of delay about Memphis.

CURED OF BLOOD POISON AF-TER FIFTY-TWO DOCTORS FAILED.

Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Guthrie, Mo., In 1872 a small simple broke out on my leg. It began eating and in four months I was treated by a physician of Talladega county, Ala., where I lived eighteen years. He relieved it for a short while. In six weeks it broke out again in both legs, also on my shoulder. The small bones were taken out. It continued until 1876. In this time I had twelve different physicians. They told me the only remedy was amputation; that it could never be cured. For six months I could not walk a step. I went to Mineral Wells, Texas, spent $300.00; came home; went to Hot Springs, Ark., spent nine months; all failed to cure me. In 1887 I came back to Birmingham, Ala. I was advised to write you, which I did. You wrote me that B. B. B. would cure me, and I could get the medicine from Nabors & Morrow, Druggists, of our city. I bought ten bottles and before I had finished my fifth bottle my legs began to heal, and in less than two months I was sound and well. That has been nearly two years ago, and no sign of its returning. I have spent in cash over $100.00, and B. B. B. done the work that all the rest failed to do.
You have my permission to publish this. I have traveled so much trying to get well that my cure is well known. Fifty-two doctors have treated me in the last 17 years. All they did was to take what money I had, and done me no good. I am now a well man.

BRANN'S RAD BREAK.

He Criticises in His Usual Style
a Prominent Paducah Minister of the Gospel.

Rector Reed, Rector of Grace Church, Very Properly Declines to Pay Attention to Such an Article.

Brann's Iconoclast this month thus criticizes Rev. B. E. Reed, of the city, pastor of Grace church:
"Sometime ago a correspondent sent the Iconoclast a newspaper report of the 'jubilee sermon' of a Rev.
Mr. Reed, rector of a Protestant Episcopal church, and inquired if the statements contained therein were true. The clipping has been mislaid, and I do not remember where Rector Reed is located, but I do know that his statements, so far as I have investigated them, are arrant falsehoods.
He affirms that the American Republic is the handiwork of Episcopalian priests; that more than two-thirds of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and an equal proportion of our general officers and presidents have been members of that denominational church. As the sources of information regarding the religious views of most prominent Americans are shamefully meagre,
I was inclined to regard Rector Reed's sermon as a historical document of inestimable value. Believing, however, to act upon the advice of St. Paul and 'prove all things,' I began a cursory investigation. Rector Reed neglected to give the source of his information, and to save me I could find but seven presidents, including Washington, who were Episcopalians, and now Col.
Patrick Ford, of the Irish World, calls my attention to Jared Sparks's statement that the father of his country withdrew himself from communion service." Jefferson, whom Rector Reed claims as an Episcopalian, was, as every school boy knows, an avowed freethinker. The Adamses were Unitarians. Garfield was a Campbellite, Jackson, Buchanan, Cleveland and Ben Harrison were Presbyterians; Lincoln was non-sectarian, Grant and Hayes were Methodists, as is McKinley, while the religion of several others is unknown.
Rector Reed's other statements stand examination as poorly as that relating to the president. It is pretty safe to judge a church by its clergy, and the clergy of the Anglo-American or Episcopal church were tory almost to a man."

Rev. Reed was seen by a Sun reporter yesterday relative to the above criticism, and, although he had not seen the article, agreed to an interview today. When a reporter called on him in his study this morning, however, he was disappointed to find that Rev. Reed had changed his mind. A copy of the Iconoclast lay on his table beside him.

"I have learned," he said with a quiet smile, "the character of the magazine since I saw you yesterday.
I was not aware of it then, but after reading the article I readily reached the conclusion that it would be unnecessary and undignified to answer such arguments."

Rev. Reed stated that he had been misquoted in some instances, in the above, and that he could easily substantiate anything he had really said in his sermons.

WOMAN'S WONDERFUL WAYS

They are Graphically Described—A Synopsis of a Letter Delivered by Mrs. Kendall Before the Woman's Society.

Boston, Nov. 3.—A large and refined audience of ladies greeted Mrs.
Kendall upon the occasion of her second appearance before a Boston assemblage this afternoon. In introducing her lecture the distinguished lady referred to the true position of woman in society, and how her physical condition affects her social and intellectual standing. Continuing she said:

"Those who have made careful investigation tell us that heathen women are much more able to endure pain than are the women of civilization; but civilized woman resent the charge that they are weaker because they are civilized. A distinguished writer says: 'If the women of civilization are less able to endure than are heathen women, it is a more accidental circumstance, and one within their control.' When a woman has health, beauty is certain to appear, even in features once plain. With health and beauty in all their attractiveness a new life dawns, enjoyment begins, and all the luxurious attendants of a healthy body come forth. The maiden feels the glorious possibilities of life; the mother feels conscious of the grandeur of maternity and the joys of a family. The Creator has given both woman and man perfect physical forms, and each is constitutionally equal to all natural demands, but how much woman suffers, and in what numbers of cases is man alone to blame.

"A few weeks ago I received a call from a charming lady, who stated that she was suffering, and wished to know if I could in any way aid her. There is no doubt that thousands of women are suffering today from similar troubles, who do not recognize their cause so nearly as this lady did. She felt languid, restless, nervous, blue. She had headache, backache, cold feet and sinking sensations. Her complexion was sallow; her appetite tickle. I knew the cause, and I am happy to state that I was able to afford relief.

"No woman is ever seriously sick for any length of time when the blood is pure, and no blood can be impure when the kidneys and liver are in perfect order. I feel it my privilege today to state that I believe there is a means whereby women who are suffering can obtain complete relief and peace, who are in fact, he continued in his enjoyment. A few years ago a prominent and wealthy gentleman was given up to die of Bright's disease of the kidneys. By means of a simple and purely vegetable remedy he was restored to perfect health. So efficient did this remedy prove in the case of many well known men that it began also to be used by ladies, and today thousands of women in all parts of the land owe their restored health and continued happiness to the wonderful power of Warner's Safe Cure.

"The performance of the natural functions of womanhood and motherhood is not a disease, nor should it be so treated. If, however, the blood is impure, it is certain to produce poisonous effects in the parts with which it comes in contact and thus cause inflammation and the innumerable ills which make the physical life of woman so hard to endure.
I am aware a prejudice exists against proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well founded, but we should discriminate—not condemn all because some are ineffective. The merits of Warner's Safe Cure have been proven beyond a doubt, because they deal directly with the causes of all female troubles.

"The minds and manners of American women are all that can be desired but it is a lamentable fact that their physical frames are far inferior in comparison with their social and moral characteristics. The women of England are noted for their florid beauty; those of Germany for their strong constitutions; and the ladies of France for their exuberance of spirits; but American women possess too few of these qualities in any prominence, and all of them only in a slight degree. The reason for this must be plain to every careful observer. Sedentary ways, devotion to fashion—but above all and more than all, carelessness and indifference to daily habits and duties have rendered the women of this land far less strong and healthy than it is their duty or privilege to be. This irregular and different manner of living brings about the most serious results, and is both directly and indirectly a untold injury to the race.
The cause, therefore, being manififestly under the control of the women themselves, the power to remove it must naturally be theirs also. To maintain one's health the organs which make and purify the blood must be preserved in or restored to their normal condition. These organs are the kidneys and liver. Preserve them and you preserve your life; neglect them and you become sallow, languid and unattractive."

SATURDAY, DEC. 4, 1897.

Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad.

We wish the manager of the Register would inform us whether he wants those 5,000 slugs in gold or silver.

PADUCAHANS should be very careful what they say about the baby down the street. You are liable to get a libel suit filed at you.

That Bryan has determined to "keep the fight" is good news. The Republicans will need him to bring out their vote next year.

The filing of the libel suit brought great relief to us. We had been led to believe that suit would be brought for $100,000 or more; but a mere bagatelle of $5,000 won't cut any ice with us at all.

We warn our fellow laborers in this section to beware of the "new era in journalism." Feelings come high, and if the small article in the Six wound to the extent of five thousand dollars, a genuine roast would go up into the millions.

A newspaper man of twenty-seven years experience remarked today that after traveling over the whole country Paducah presented his first experience of a newspaper getting the worst of an argument and suing for a supposed wounding of feelings.

Those pampered individuals who appeal to the courts for "vindication" must be under the impression that they are not above suspicion in the eyes of their fellow men, even if they do claim to be above reproach. People above suspicion need no vindication.

The Secretary of the Treasury has settled the little point as to who selects the sponsor for the battle-ship Kentucky. Governor Bradley will make the selection and the lady will express be his own daughter, who by rights is the "first young lady" in Old Kentucky.

When a child goes out to play and gets mad it picks up its doll rage and goes home crying. When a newspaper gets into a discussion, and after having exhausted its supply of argument and getting the worst of it, it says the other paper for libel, for wounding its pent up feelings. That is, some papers do.

The enemies of ex-President Cleveland ought now to be satisfied. He has written a book. It is called "The Self-Made Man in American Life." While the word of the publisher is sufficient as to the authorship, the little book has numerous internal evidences of its authenticity. The first page has fifteen lines and contains "I's," "me's," "four 'me's'" and two "ours." Further proof is unnecessary.

It all depends on whose ox is being gored. When a newspaper by insinuations and accusations calls its competitor, as well as every individual who does not see proper to agree with it, every vile name known, and then, after getting the worst of the argument and being completely routed on all sides, files suit for damages done its feelings that paper is getting pretty low down. But the fewest of editors, no matter what extreme their finances have reached, will resort to this method of the "new era of journalism," preferring to either confess up or resort to the time-honored custom here before practiced in Kentucky of getting it out of the other fellows' hide.

This city council-elect had another caucus last night and made an innovation which is of doubtful propriety. Its action in "making the City National Bank, through its cashier, Mr. Chas. E. Richardson, city treasurer at the nominal salary of one dollar per year, is possibly economy. But at the same time it takes six hundred dollars from some good man. Some good Democrat probably would have received that salary, some man that needs it and would have appreciated it. Of course it is a saving, but do the citizens of Paducah want to save money in that manner. Is it Democratic doctrine to bring the banks into competition with labor? The council-elect may imagine that such economy is Democratic doctrine, but it shows in so doing that its knowledge of the underlying principles of modern Democracy is very limited.

The improvement in wages which was made a result of protective tariff is beginning to be felt. Naturally the first improvement under a protective tariff would be that relating to the number of people employed. This was felt as soon as the new law was passed, for it will be remembered that there was a marked increase in the number of people employed even before the Dingley bill went upon the statute books. The second step in the result of the measure is increased wages and that is now beginning to make itself apparent. Notices have been posted in the Mahoning Valley in Ohio announcing an increase of 20 per cent. in wages among the limestone operatives of that section, reports come from the iron mines of Michigan and Pennsylvania that wages there are to be increased 10 per cent. on January 1st, while large numbers of manufacturing establishments in various parts of the country have already announced an increase of wages.

It looks as if the days of the Chinese Empire, the founding of which antedates history itself, are soon to be numbered. There are evidences that its territory will be partitioned among Germany, England and Russia. Such partitions with the resulting obliteration of a nation are not unknown in European history. China is in trouble with Germany over the murder of two German missionaries, and it is evident that Emperor William will make the most of the outrage to secure some very important concessions. The demands made upon the Chinese Government in the way of indemnity for the murder of the two missionaries are such that the other European powers may take a hand in the scuffle. If not only in the Six but the Chinese authorities who should have protected the missionaries shall be degraded and punished, and the buildings that were destroyed replaced and $725,000 in silver money paid in cash to the mission society. He also demands the concession of railroad traffic in the Shaog Tung province, which is the largest and most populous in China, and in addition he insists that the Chinese government pay the expense of sending the German fleet to Kaio Chou to seize and occupy that city. The Chinese Emperor declares he will forfeit his crown before he accedes to these demands. But the probability is that the partition of China thus begun will provoke other aggressions until the Empire of the Sun shall be but an historic memory.

THE BACHELOR.

Cleveland Ledger.

Oh, the happy bachelor, he never has to care.

How late it is when he gets home at night.

For he doesn't have the fear of an scolding woman there.

To tell him what she thinks of him with all her might.

Oh, the happy bachelor, or what a joyous life he leads!

He spends his money freely, when it's gone he never cares.

He buys the things he fancies, regardless of his purse.

And he makes a merry racket as stars.

He falls up.

But to every bachelor there is to come a time.

When his freedom weighs upon him and his happiness is gone—

When he'll find some one to leave on, where he finds steep stairs to climb.

And a gentle fingered wife to sew.

His but-tons.

The twenty-first of this month will witness the marriage of two young well-known society people in the city of Paducah. When the names of the contracting parties are mentioned, not a few exclamations of surprise may be expected. It is not so much in the nature of a surprise either, but it will be one of those affairs that, although expected, will come at the time when it is least expected. The bride-to-be has won many friends by her attractive personality, since her residence in the city. The groom-elect comes from one of the oldest and wealthiest families in the city and is a young man of sterling worth. Both have a legion of friends that, when the cards are out, will hasten to offer congratulatory wishes.

The handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burnett never looked more radiant and attractive than on last Thursday afternoon, the occasion being a reception given by the hostess to her friends and in honor of Miss Susan Sued, of Henderson, Miss. Mrs. Moscoe Burnett.

The spacious rooms that were thrown open to the many invited guests, who enjoyed the hospitality extended from 3 to 6, were elaborately and tastefully arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett have one of the most elegant homes in Paducah, the interior woodwork and decoration distinguishing it both from an architectural and artistic standpoint. Rare engravings, deep toned oriental rugs and hangings, bric-a-brac and bronzes combined with the taste beauty of chrysanthemum decorations, all put themselves to brighten the beauty of the scene.

In the stately hall, the following ladies most gracefully assisted in receiving the guests: Mrs. Moscoe Burnett, Mrs. William Powell, Miss Myra Gould and Miss Rebecca Allen.

The parlor held the receiving party which consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Burnett and Miss Sued. Mrs. Burnett, dressed in a superb Parisian creation, welcomed her guests on their arrival, ably seconded by the grace of hostess, Mr. Burnett.

Miss Sued's costume, a pure white organza over white tulle silk with orange trimmings of valley lilies most fittingly harmonized with the gorgeous surroundings.

In the elegantly appointed dining room a faultless collation was served. Snowy chrysanthemums, occupying rare vases, over which gleamed the soft light of green candles in silver candlesticks converted the banquet board into a thing of supernatural beauty.

Mrs. Burnett, mother of Mr. Burnett, and Mrs. Mary Kobb, were presiding deities here. Miss Mary Burnett and Miss Adine and Cherry Moscoe assisting in receiving and serving the guests, contributed greatly to the ease and enjoyment of all.

It is a wise man who knows how little he knows.

Two well known society men, their last names both beginning with an M, have for the past month kept the sidewalks of a popular residence street warm.

"There's a woman at the bottom of it," say the venerable moral copy books, and in this case there is no exception.

For reasons best known to themselves the young gentlemen couldn't call, but there is no edict against passing what they supposed to be her residence. So they did it in the morning, noon and night, in hopes of catching a peep at the fair charmer.

The neighbors wondered hourly what caused the constant presence of the young men in that vicinity, and began to fear for the minds of the pair.

A gentleman in the neighborhood, whose curiosity is his only (?) besetting sin, called the young (?) men down on it one day.

"Why," said they, "we came by to see Mrs. M. I mean Miss M., is that any of your business?"

Well, his mirth knew no bounds. The laugh was decidedly up on them, for, for the last four weeks, they had been passing and peering at the home of two of the proudest old maids in the city, thinking it the object of their thoughts all alone.

PAIDS, FURBLED, FAY, CIES, FRILLS.

The costliest fad among women of fashion at present is the craze for lace. Many of the fair sex spend hours in the attic rummaging through quaint, old-fashioned trunks and cedar chests for the pieces worn by their ancestors in the primeval ages.

The craze for birds and feathers of all kinds has got to the point that every pretty member of the feathered tribe is despoiled for the ornamentation of the feminine coiffure.

The rage for the R. v. s. blonde will last through the win' er, but next in favor is the birdie with the pouch front, which is much more becoming.

The ever-popular shawl is what will be worn through the winter for shopping and business. Made in velvet, silk or pretty colored materials.

Persa, a lamb ranks first in popularity in furs this season.

Ak already accordion plaid is a new material offered for evening dress. It comes in the usual colors, enhanced by the new periwinkle blue, and a range of beautiful yellow, buff, corn color, "cassor," topaz and orange tawny hues.

An article of jewelry which has returned to be again fashionable is the ear-ring.

The locket is also seen in London and New York. Some of them are securities, especially those of dull, Roman gold, set with a monogram in turquoise.

The black velvet bodice is the prize winter possession of the well-gowned woman.

FASHION'S FOLLY.

I knew a maid, fair and sweet.

Whom I had loved for years:

At last, one day, I told her this.

Although with many tears.

At first she did not say a word.

Then in a pleasant way.

She looked out to the West and said:

"It is a pleasant day."

She had not heard a single word.

She told me since with tears:

She wore her hair as some girls will.

Down over both her ears.

If you are invited to a fad party, you are expected to take with you some object that represents your pet fad, and after you have exhibited it you are to talk about it; tell how you acquired it and anything of interest in connection with it. Until you have attended one of these affairs you can have no idea of the interesting peep it gives you into a hitherto unsuspected side of your friend's life. The man whom you had known only as a thoughtful student, reluctantly confesses to a passion for scarf pins, and marvelous may be the stories attached to the getting of some of these. With another it may be weapons, modern and antique, and a doubtless he will prove to be the most peaceful one among you.

With one it is photographs, with another it is stamps of old engravings. Almost everyone will have some interesting hobby. Among women one will bring a priceless plate and tell you of her Washington plate and other rare and interesting china. Another collects silver for her toilet table, rings, fobs and fans.

The craze for birds and feathers of all kinds has got to the point that every pretty member of the feathered tribe is despoiled for the ornamentation of the feminine coiffure.

The rage for the R. v. s. blonde will last through the win' er, but next in favor is the birdie with the pouch front, which is much more becoming.

The ever-popular shawl is what will be worn through the winter for shopping and business. Made in velvet, silk or pretty colored materials.

Persa, a lamb ranks first in popularity in furs this season.

Ak already accordion plaid is a new material offered for evening dress. It comes in the usual colors, enhanced by the new periwinkle blue, and a range of beautiful yellow, buff, corn color, "cassor," topaz and orange tawny hues.

An article of jewelry which has returned to be again fashionable is the ear-ring.

The locket is also seen in London and New York. Some of them are securities, especially those of dull, Roman gold, set with a monogram in turquoise.

The black velvet bodice is the prize winter possession of the well-gowned woman.

FASHION'S FOLLY.

I knew a maid, fair and sweet.

Whom I had loved for years:

At last, one day, I told her this.

Although with many tears.

At first she did not say a word.

Then in a pleasant way.

She looked out to the West and said:

"It is a pleasant day."

She had not heard a single word.

She told me since with tears:

She wore her hair as some girls will.

Down over both her ears.

"Look at Farmer Brown's clothes," said the spring turkey to its papa.

He is dressed to kill," said the exp. fenced gobler, as he bled him away to tall timber in the adjoining woods.

Yellow and violet are the leading shades in stationery.

If you are invited to a fad party, you are expected to take with you some object that represents your pet fad, and after you have exhibited it you are to talk about it; tell how you acquired it and anything of interest in connection with it. Until you have attended one of these affairs you can have no idea of the interesting peep it gives you into a hitherto unsuspected side of your friend's life. The man whom you had known only as a thoughtful student, reluctantly confesses to a passion for scarf pins, and marvelous may be the stories attached to the getting of some of these. With another it may be weapons, modern and antique, and a doubtless he will prove to be the most peaceful one among you.

With one it is photographs, with another it is stamps of old engravings. Almost everyone will have some interesting hobby. Among women one will bring a priceless plate and tell you of her Washington plate and other rare and interesting china. Another collects silver for her toilet table, rings, fobs and fans.

combined with the taste beauty of chrysanthemum decorations, all put themselves to brighten the beauty of the scene.

In the stately hall, the following ladies most gracefully assisted in receiving the guests: Mrs. Moscoe Burnett, Mrs. William Powell, Miss Myra Gould and Miss Rebecca Allen.

The parlor held the receiving party which consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Burnett and Miss Sued. Mrs. Burnett, dressed in a superb Parisian creation, welcomed her guests on their arrival, ably seconded by the grace of hostess, Mr. Burnett.

Miss Sued's costume, a pure white organza over white tulle silk with orange trimmings of valley lilies most fittingly harmonized with the gorgeous surroundings.

ELECTRIC SNOW PLOW
For the Paducah Street Railway Company.
It is Propelled by Two Electric Motors and Will Be Very Effective.

The Paducah Street Railway Company has a novelty in the shape of an electric snow plow. The huge machine is very ingenious, and was completed last night, being now ready for a snow as big as those they have in Klondike.

It is mounted on trucks, and propelled by two electric motors, and will doubtless attract no little attention when first brought out for use. The snow plows have heretofore been pushed by the electric cars, and were very slow. The present machine can be quickly and effectively operated, and will prove a great blessing in deep snows.

CASE DISMISSED
Against Miss Julia Crowell, of West Broadway.

The case against Miss Julia Crowell, charged with taking $20 from James Hendon, a railroad, was dismissed today. The case was left open from last Tuesday. It was intended to introduce new evidence, but the testimony already heard was insufficient to warrant Judge Sanders from holding her, and the case was promptly dismissed.

The case against Andrew Boyd, charged with stealing a watch belonging to Actor Cal Melvin, was left open until Monday, and in all probability will be turned over to the grand jury.

Harrison Dunlap and Wm. Ketcham were charged with breach of ordinance, by permitting boys to run at large. The cases were dismissed.

Unfortunate John Ladd was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Crowding to the Front

Good goods at bargain prices are winning this day for this store. We started out to give greater values for the money than any other store. We have done that, are doing it every day, and shall continue to do it. This change your mind before it is too late. As I was saying, Miss Hartleype, without any extraordinary effort or trying awake of nights to worry about it, has become possessed of all the good things of life, while I, her employer, have spent the years in a continuous grind, and with road of scheming and money nevering in order to make enough money to keep things including her salary—purer as they could be.

And you have not been able to indulge very extensively in pleasures (I am afraid).

"No, sir, you just let me know. When I sometimes a summer suit has had to last me way through a cold and hot winter, and—now, just when I was getting my mind set on buying a new suit, you come along and offer me a business suit, as well as a new one, and all, what must I do but go and unbury my greatest business rival.

With her inside knowledge of the effects and methods, I expect to live seven-eighths of my trade here in three months. Give women their share—and let's too. If they ask for a thing, I say, but at the same time do something for poor slighted men and their mental wrongs."—Boston Globe.

Men's Wrongs.
They Should Be Looked After, De-clares Gowan.
"Women's rights!" shrieked Gowan, as his eagle eye went wandering about the counter in the effort to locate the biggest and best-looking piece of custard pie lying thereon. "Do I believe in women's rights? Why, certainly I do! But how about men's wrongs, eh?"

"Will you have a separate plate for your cheese, sir?" demurely interrupted a meek-looking waitress, as she viewed with terror the 11 pieces of this condiment to which my companion had helped himself.

"Men's wrongs, that's my side of the question," went on Gowan as soon as we were comfortably seated again.

"Look at my typewriter and stenographer. I pay her $12 a week, and have done so for a couple of years or more. What's the consequence? Young men take her to—"
